If it didn't work, it need not be repeated.-The Courant,

This seems to be The Courant's way of showing that the annual session is preferable to the biennial and would be better for the farmers as well as the state. The Bulletin does not feel recommending a return to annual sessions, but from the way the business lags, the legislature dilly-dallies, and the special bills get rail-roaded through at last when not more than half the legislators are present, is oes seem as if legislative matters hould be done with more despatch and with more justice to the people the annual session would accom to "progress backwards just a lactic."

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR Trading Cove Brook Private Property

Mr. Editor: The Trading cove brook is the water supply of our woolen mill at Trading cove. It was brought to the attention of the citizens of Norwich at a special city meeting without our at a special city meeting without our prior knowledge as an emergency supply by Mr. Orman E. Ryther, who upon also own familiarity with and investigation of the stream and the watershed recommended it as containing good drinking water to furnish to the people of Norwich. Mr. Ryther in the city meeting spoke on the subject in detail and at length and gave the people, we believe exhaustive and accurate information of Trading cove brook waters and the lands bordering on the stream. His praise of the water and the watershed was fair and just.

We believe the water of the brook is good drinking water and far superior to the water that for months has come from Fairview and Mohegan lake. We do not think the water needs chemical treatment or filtering, for it is already fit for use. Out of abundance of caution it would be well to clean up the bordering land and remove all impurities and sources of contamination that exist more or less on all watersheds. Good sanitary conditions on the watershed at a small outley. In our inde-

Good sanitary conditions on the water-shed could be brought about and main-tained at a small outlay. In our judg-ment Trading cove brook should have been pumped many weeks ago and thus have allowed many millions of gallons of water to be stored at Fairview res-ervoir to meet needs that are sure to come in the dry season that is near at hand.

"This remedy," said the drugstst, with the most engaging candor, "is something I can recommend without reservation of an inclinal I is compounded under my was the compounded under my was the contributed of the recommend of the compounded under my was the contributed of the commend of the recommend without the charished possession of the royal house of Demmark. It is a hendache ourse and nothing else. I do not claim that it will grow hair on baid heads or remove the cone spayina. It is simply a headache cure. What kind of a headache are you subject to?"

"I guess I have all the kinds there are," said the prospective customer, with an air of pardonable pride. There may be some varieties of headache that I haven't been up against, but I don't believe you'll find them in the catalogue. Of course, so many new diseases are being invented nowadays since this germ fad became popular that there may be some new wrinkles I haven't got next to, but I have sumpled all the standard brands of headache that there may be some new wrinkles I haven't got next to, but I have sampled all the standard brands of headache that there may be some new winkles I have the plain, or dinary old fashloned kind that passes are being invented nowadays show the got mat to, but I was sampled all the standard brands of headache to visit her mother.

We write this letter to the people because of the letter of Mr. L.W. Frink that appears in The Bulletin this morning. He and perhaps others are mistaken in understanding that Trading cove brook is an addition to be used continually as a source of supply of water to the city. We are offering these waters to the city solely as an emergency supply to last only until the city can by prompt and diligent action secure an additional watershed and reservoir.

secure an additional watershed and reservoir.

The waters of Trading cove brook are absolutely necessary to the operation of our mill and business as woolen manufacturers. Our rights in those waters are not for sale and no permanent right to take those waters by the city or anyone else can be had from us. Our offer of those waters to the citizens as an emergency supply still holds good, if the city will proceed to use the waters and proceed to get a new permanent reservoir.

As citizens and taxpayers of Norwich it is our judgment that the city should take the Stony brook watershed for a permanent water supply.

Stony brook has received the strongest approval and recommendation of the best water engineers in the country infermed us that Stony brook is selentific authority infermed us that Stony brook is selentific authority infermed us that Stony brook is selected.

lieve in Stony brook, and for those reasons we believe that the city will be using the very best business judgment in taking Stony brook for the additional permanent supply of water.

HALL BROTHERS. Norwich, Conn., Feb. 14, 1911.

The Superiority of Stony Brook.

Mr. Editor: Allow me a small space to correct a few errors and mistakes that have been made in regard to water on the high points of the city. At the last city meeting someone stated that the people on the high points, Lamb's Hill and Jail Hill, could not get water. The Fairview reservoir when full will supply these points and until the water falls to the nine foot mark, Lamb's Hill in particular, because it is supplied with large main, while on Jail Hill the mains are too small, and with dead ends the volume is small. Now what is necessary is a little more pressure and larger volume, which we can have by going to Stony brook, and which we own, and is 26 feet higher than Fairview reservoir, and by bringing Mr. Editor: Allow me a small space Right on top of pledging a million for a new Y. M. C. A. building, Philadeiphia raised $115,000 for the families of 13 firemen killed in the line of duty.

which we own, and is 26 feet higher than Fairview reservoir, and by bringing water into the city a 24-inch pipe line to Washington square and connecting with the 16-inch main at that point on Washington street; then through when Jeffries broke the silence and began to talk he made Jack Johnson cherish a new hope, but he doesn't propose to show the world he is superior in the ring.

Those who see flocks of birds which they think are rare visitors from the far north should notice distinctive plumage marks. From these bird-men may identify them.

The Boston Transcript says: Congressman-elect Harris, in the proposed appointment of his daughter as his secretary, will be doing nothing unprecedented or very unusual. There are not a few women clerks to congressmen already and their number chance for contamination, more pres-sure than Pairvlew and Meadow brook will give you, and which your city mains will stand with distribution to the center of your city and not at one

The Age of Empty Talk. The abundance of orators is the reatest evil of democracies exploited by a parliamentary regime. The quali-les which ought to be exhibited in a ties which ought to be exhibited in a parliament. . . professional knowledge, experience, authority, moderation, good manners, dignity, are fragically lacking. Go South, Young Man!

In the good old days when Horace Greeley was telling the farmers and the school teachers what to do, ambitious men used to grope their way into the west and take up quarter sections arranging at the same time a proper defense against the Indians and praying nightly that in good time a railroad would pass near their property and enable them to market whatever their lands could be persuaded to yield. "Go west, young man!" met with a hearty response, and desplie many and great obstacles the west was won and most of those who went into the new-country found eventual wealth and prosperity.

Some people think that with the passing of the opportunities invest have is no further channe to emigrate. Yet the south offers opportunities incomparably better than any the west ever did or could offer. We have no lands to give away, it is true, but it is possible to buy a fair acreage in the south for about what the trip west used to cost. Moreover, the land that would be obtained in the sputh is good land, capable of producing the finest crops, and so situated that these crops can be easily marketed. The climate here is far and away better than the climate in the west, and there are just about as good people in the south as can be found anywhere in the world.—Columbia, S. C., State.
